

Through Saturday, June 29

Pacifico Silano, Boundless Blue (2019). Courtesy of the artist and the Bronx Museum of the Arts.

18. “Pacifico Silano: Speaking Little, Perhaps Not a Word” at the Bronx Museum’s Block Gallery.

Re-photographing imagery culled from gay erotica of the ‘80s, Pacifico Silano explores the relationship between loss and lust, death and desire. Despite the sunsets, waterfalls, and comely young men populating the source material, a sadness permeates Silano’s pictures—the shadow of the AIDS crisis. Faces are often obstructed or cropped out, like a reminder of the lives lost. And yet, there’s a defiant sense of resilience too.

Location: The Block Gallery, 80 White Street, 2nd Floor

Price: Free

Time: Wednesday-Friday, 12:00 PM – 5:00 PM.

—Taylor Dafoe